IMPACT BY THE NUMBERS FOR RHODE ISLAND

Grants to Rhode Island Organizations and Individuals in 2022, including from the American Rescue Plan – $3,232,033

Number of Grantees – 16

Recent Project Highlights:

- Brown University received a $350,000 Digital Humanities Advancement Grant. Stolen Relations is a community-centered, collaborative project that seeks to broaden, centralize, and catalog the experience of indigenous and settler colonialism and its legacies through the lens of slavery and servitude.
- Osama Siddiqui, an assistant professor in the Department of History and Classics at Providence College received a NEH Summer Stipend to work on his book, A Science of Society. This is a study of the translation and circulation of western liberal economic ideas in colonial India in the nineteenth century.

NEH also provides annual funding to the Rhode Island Council for the Humanities, the designated humanities council in the state, to support a wide array of public programming.

Recent Rhode Island Humanities Highlights:

- The council has published the Rhode Island Civic Health Index. This report serves as the state's first-ever Civic Health Index. Part of the "A More Perfect Union" initiative, the report provides a baseline to help communities, leaders, and policy makers understand what challenges and opportunities Rhode Islanders share.
- Rhode Tour is a free mobile app and website that tells stories by and about Rhode Islanders. The tour brings mapping technology, sound, images, videos and well-told stories together to engage in learning, with 35 tours and over 300 stories available.
